

I am a faculty member at the University of Rochester where my practice focuses on total hip and knee replacement. I completed my medical school at Weill Cornell Medical College, where I was elected a member of Alpha Omega Alpha honor society. I completed my residency and fellowship in joint replacement surgery at the Hospital for Special Surgery and New York Presbyterian Hospital in New York City. After fellowship, I was awarded the M.E. Muller Foundation of North America's European Traveling Hip Fellowship, where I learned advanced reconstructive techniques from leaders in Switzerland, Germany, and the United Kingdom. In addition to my clinical practice, I am actively involved in clinical and translational research in collaboration from scientists from the Center for Musculoskeletal Research. I also serve on the editorial board of major orthopaedic journals such as Clinical Orthopaedics and Related Research, The Knee, Arthroplasty Today, and HSS Journal.
