

Susan M McDowell, MD

Susan McDowell is an orthopedic oncologist and associate professor at the University of Rochester Medical Center. Susan completed both her medical school and residency training at Indiana University. She then served as a Lieutenant Commander in the Medical Corps of the United States Navy. After active-duty service, she returned to training to complete her Oncology fellowship with the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, MN. She is the residency program director and chief of the orthopedic oncology division.