Bruce L. Greene, MD,MHA,FAAOS Bio

Dr. Bruce Greene graduated from Yale University and earned his M.D. from Rutgers Medical School/Robert Wood Johnson Medical School. He completed his orthopaedic surgery residency at New Jersey Medical School and an Orthopaedic Sports Medicine Fellowship at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. Following his training, Dr. Greene practiced orthopaedics in Ithaca, New York for 28 years, where he combined clinical excellence with a deep commitment to education and mentorship.

During his time in Ithaca, Dr. Greene mentored physician assistant students from Rochester Institute of Technology and established orthopaedic teaching laboratories at Ithaca College and Cornell University. He served as Co-Director of Cornell University's Post-Baccalaureate Program in the Division of Nutritional Sciences and was the team physician for Ithaca College Football. Additionally, he served for more than a decade as Head Team Physician for Cornell University's men's and women's basketball programs.

Dr. Greene later returned to New Jersey Medical School as an Associate Professor of Orthopaedic Surgery, where he trained residents and medical students with an emphasis on humanistic patient care. His dedication has been recognized with multiple awards. Throughout his career, Dr. Greene has remained deeply committed to mentoring future orthopaedic surgeons and supporting diverse pathways into medicine.