Dr. Daniel G. Kang is a distinguished orthopaedic surgeon, educator, and military officer. He graduated as the class valedictorian (ranked #1 overall among 996 cadets) from the United States Military Academy at West Point, NY, where he was inducted into the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. Following graduation, he entered into the U.S. Army's Health Professions Scholarship Program (HPSP), and attended medical school at Georgetown University School of Medicine in Washington D.C., followed by residency training in Orthopaedic Surgery at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center, Bethesda, MD. He then completed an Adult and Pediatric Spine Surgery Fellowship at Washington University/Barnes-Jewish Hospital in St. Louis, MO.

Dr. Kang served 18 years on active-duty in the U.S. Army Medical Corps, attaining the rank of Colonel, and continues to serve in the U.S. Army Reserve, 915th Forward Resuscitative Surgical Detachment (FRSD) in Vancouver, WA, including three overseas deployments in support of the Global War on Terror and Operation Inherent Resolve. Dr. Kang most recently served as Program Director for the Madigan Orthopaedic Surgery Residency Program (2020–2025).

Dr. Kang has been recognized for leadership and academic excellence throughout his medical career. He served as medical school Class President and was inducted into the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society. He has received numerous awards, including the Georgetown School of Medicine Jesuit Leadership and Service Award, the John N. Delahay, MD Award for Excellence in Orthopaedic Surgery, and the Major General Lewis A. Mologne Award recognizing him as the Most Outstanding Graduating Resident in the National Capital Consortium (2014). He was honored with the Society of Military Orthopaedic Surgeons Emerging Young Leader in Orthopaedics Award (2018), the Madigan Orthopaedic Surgery Residency Educator of the Year Award (2019), participated in the prestigious AOA NATF Traveling Fellowship (2019), and was named to North American Spine Society 20 under 40 (2020).

An accomplished researcher and educator, Dr. Kang serves as Deputy Editor of The Spine Journal, has authored over 75 peer-reviewed articles, 21 book chapters, and more than 250 podium presentations at national and international conferences. He has delivered over 70 invited lectures and educational symposium presentations, and has trained and mentored more than 50 orthopaedic surgery residents and orthopaedic physician assistant fellows, advancing the field of spine care and orthopaedic education.