Dr. Daniel R. Schmitt is an Assistant Professor and Associate Program Director in the Department of Orthopaedic Surgery & Rehabilitation at Loyola University Stritch School of Medicine, where he also serves as an attending surgeon and Orthopaedic Surgery Residency Site Director at the Edward Hines, Jr. VA Hospital. His clinical practice focuses on complex primary and revision hip and knee arthroplasty.

Dr. Schmitt completed his orthopaedic surgery residency at Loyola University Medical Center and the Otto E. Aufranc Fellowship in Adult Reconstructive Surgery at New England Baptist Hospital. He is a Diplomate of the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery and a 2024 graduate of the AOA/USC APEX Leadership Program.

Within the American Orthopaedic Association, Dr. Schmitt is a participating member of the Council of Orthopaedic Program Directors and the AOA/CORD Away Rotations Workgroup. He has served as a Subject Matter Expert for ABOS Part I Exam Standard Setting and leads Loyola's Orthopaedic Residency Clinical Competence Committee. An active researcher and educator, he has authored more than 30 peer-reviewed publications and was named Loyola Orthopaedic Surgery Residency Educator of the Year for 2024–2025.