James E. Voos, MD currently serves as Professor and Chair for the Department of Orthopedic Surgery at University Hospitals Cleveland and Case Western Reserve University. He holds the Charles H. Herndon Professorship at Case Western Reserve University and the Jack & Mary Herrick Distinguished Chair in Orthopedics and Sports Medicine at UH.

Dr. Voos has served as served as Head Team Physician for the Cleveland Browns since 2014 and recently completed a 2 year term as President of the National Football League Physician Society (2025-2026).

Dr. Voos attended Drake University for his undergraduate degree. He then earned his medical degree from the University of Kansas where he was elected president of the Alpha Omega Alpha honor society. He performed his Orthopedic Surgery Residency and Sports Medicine Fellowship at the US News & World Report #1 ranked Hospital for Special Surgery in New York where he was an assistant Team Physician for the New York Giants and WNBA New York Liberty. Prior to arriving in Cleveland, Dr. Voos served as the Team Physician for the Kansas City Chiefs and Head Physician for the Kansas City Ballet.

Dr. Voos was the visionary behind the UH Drusinsky Sports Medicine Institute over at the Ahuja Medical Center. This 78,000 square foot facility is a one-stop shop for all Sports Medicine and Orthopedic Care – and serves as a hub for the over 80 high schools, colleges and universities that partner with the UH Drusinsky Sports Medicine Institute. He also created the Executive Director of the UH Haslam Sports Innovation Center to invest, support and promote start-up companies committed to athlete safety.

Dr. Voos has published various scientific publications and book chapters on topics such as ACL reconstruction, shoulder instability, wearable technology and stem cell therapy. Dr. Voos has a passion for advancing the safety and education of athletes with expertise in the use of wearable technology, injury prevention and sports performance.

Dr. Voos' wife, Kristin, is a neonatologist and practiced at Rainbow Babies and Children upon their arrival in Cleveland. They have 3 children, Kalli, K.C. and Klara.